A SERIES OF WORKS FROM ACROSS THE GLOBE – AFRICA, NEPAL, EUROPE, AND THE MIDDLE EAST.

The exhibition presents both colour works, reflecting the diversity and beauty of life on Earth, and black-and-white symbolic codes and allusions to this reality. An abundance of references to world fine art, alongside visual depictions of myths and stories from global religions, offers the inquisitive viewer a chance to see any event as a hidden message in their own life, revealing the multi-layered nature of the manifest world.

A black and white photograph capturing a moment of artistic creation. A hand, adorned with a bracelet and rings, holds a pencil poised over a blank sheet of paper mounted on a dark easel. The background is a wall with a rough, textured surface, possibly plaster or stone. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the textures and the hand's position. In the bottom right corner, a small container holds several pens and pencils.

Alexander Korenkov was born in Moscow in 1978. He studied opera singing at the Moscow Conservatory, performed at the Mariinsky Theatre, and toured worldwide as an opera singer. Alongside his musical career, Alexander studied classical black-and-white film photography under masters of the Soviet photographic school. As a result of his extensive travels, his portfolio features photographs from across the globe, including Spain, Italy, France, the US, Russia, and Syria. His works have been exhibited at the Soho Gallery in New York, and at the Manege in both Moscow and St Petersburg.

“What sound are you right now?” – this is the question I ask myself every time I press the shutter. In my works, I convey the surrealism of everyday life, revealing the meaning of events through signs and symbols. In this way, we can tangibly perceive and immerse ourselves in the immanent state of a constant presence – something incomparably greater than ourselves”.
